The burglars had been working eve night for some time in the hall outside their cells, and it was discovered that the iron bars which protect the windows of the ail on the outside, had been more or less filed. The jail is so constructed that a man can step from the upper tier of cells acres the narrow space, or hall, to the windows which can be easily lowered. The design was of the burglars to saw off the bars, and slip down them to the ground. Fortunate-, Sheriff Nicola discovered them in the ck of time, and frustrated their plans.

A CHERTRUT DEALER'S HONESTY.-A laugh ble scene was lately served up, gratis, to spectators at the Union Depot. Among other chestnut and apple venders there there is an elderly, half blind Irishman, who plies his trade with chearfulness and honesty. One of his late exhibitions of the quality which is held in the proverb to be the best policy, was quite amusing. All the chestnut dealers charge five cents per ng that it was down, in the income tax glass of these nuts, and our hero insists on taking no more than the current price. On the occasin referred to a young man came up to him, and taking two glasses of chestnuis handed the vender some serip, and sum of money set opposite his name, he quickly withdrew.
